Dear Parents & Staff,

You may have heard in the news that Southern California is facing its first tropical storm in 94 years. Hurricane Hilary is currently a category 4 hurricane, but weather forecasters predict it will diminish to a tropical storm by the time it reaches us. Nonetheless, we will likely have a lot of rain this weekend.

At this time, I am not anticipating school to be affected but of course will keep an eye out on the news and local emergency alert services as weather can be unpredictable. If you have never experienced a hurricane or tropical storm before, please check out the CDC website for recommendations on how to prepare:

<https://www.cdc.gov/disasters/hurricanes/before.html>.

Additionally, you can sign up for emergency alert services as well and receive text or email warnings. For Orange County, click here <https://www.ocgov.com/about-county/emergency> to sign up. For Los Angeles County, click here <https://ready.lacounty.gov/emergency-notifications/> to sign up.

I will do my best to inform you as soon as possible if our school situation is to change on Monday. Until then, you may want to prepare additional indoor activities for the children.

Here are some ideas from our blog to get you started:

Sincerely,

Veronica Chen, M.Ed., M.B.A.
